Back to Scotland, for a workshop organized by Gerry Quinn, of the University of St. Andrews!

St. Andrews is Scotland's oldest university, founded 1413. The EWIC participants, most of them psychologists and neuroscientists, were aware of the longstanding philosophical tradition entertained by St. Andrews University.

Keynote speakers at St. Andrews were Giacomo Rizzolatti (Parma), Jim Haxby (Princeton), and Graham Hitch (York).

Bob Logie attentively listens to Giacomo Rizzolatti's keynote presentation on the mirror neuron system...

... and Giacomo listens to Gerry's talk.

Gerry Quinn edited a Special Section of Neuroscience and Biobehavioral Reviews (2008), entitled "Imagery and Cognition", which included four review articles.
