EWIC went to Utrecht in 2007, for a meeting hosted by Albert Postma. The workshop took place in the historical building of the Academieggebouw of Utrecht University, just beside St. Martin's Cathedral.

The presentations were delivered below the portraits of eminent professors of the University, including that of F. C. Donders, the father of mental chronometry and inventor of the subtractive method.

The sessions proceeded smoothly under Albert's careful supervision.

EWIC also benefitted from an efficient team of cheerful and dedicated assistants on the registration desk.

Ineke van der Ham, Jessie Bullens, Veronica Maassen, Marijn Struiksma, and Maartje de Goede.

Once again, the arrow shows the way to EWIC!

Larry Barsalou (Emory), Patrick Haggard (UCL) and Jan Theeuwes (Amsterdam) delivered keynote addresses. Albert and Larry were guest co-editors of an issue of Acta Psychologica (2009), which contained nine articles based on selected EWIC presentations. The title of the issue was: "Spatial Working Memory and Imagery: From Eye Movements to Grounded Cognition".
